

BIG PRICE WILL BE PAID OWNERS

WISCONSIN RUBBER CO. TO SELL
ITS HOLDINGS TO LONDON CONCERN.

MANY SHARES OWNED HERE

From Twenty to Thirty Thousand Dollars Will Be Paid Into Janesville Coffers If Deal Goes Through.

According to a dispatch from Madison this afternoon the transfer of $1,200,000 worth of property belonging to the Wisconsin Rubber company, located at Frontenac on the south coast of Mexico, is being made in New York today to a London syndicate. The consideration is $2,200,000.

This is the company that some twenty or more residents of Janesville own or have shares in and was promoted several years ago. All the stock being owned by Wisconsin residents the majority of whom live in Madison or the vicinity.

The stock originally cost three hundred dollars a share and the price the London syndicate has offered makes it now worth eight hundred—a gain of some five hundred dollars per share. The total profit, if the deal goes through, is $2,000,000.

The company planted 3,000,000 rubber trees six years ago and these are now ready for tapping. There is in all 7,000 acres in the plantation and of this 5,500 is now under cultivation.
Prof. Erasmus H. Anderson of Madison is in New York City today to close the deal, he being president of the company. Estimating that the twenty odd stockholders in Janesville have thirty shares, this means that some $21,000 will be paid local people in a few days.

NEW ARGUMENTS IN GOVERNMENT CASE

U. S. Attorney General Says Federal Courts Have Jurisdiction in New York World Libel

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—A brief setting forth that the federal courts have jurisdiction in the New York World libel case was filed in the supreme court today. In argument on the government's appeal from the quashing of the libel indictment against the World by the United States circuit court at New York.
The brief reviews the facts in the case, setting forth the World's story to the effect that C. P. Taft, Douglas Robinson, William Nelson Cromwell and J. P. Morgan, by reason of their intimacy with President Taft and Col.
Theodore Roosevelt, made large profits from the sale of the French Panama canal property to this government. After reciting that the suit was brought on the circulation of the World on the government's revocation at West Point, the brief recites that on motion the attorneys for the World filed an indictment.

An argument based on citations of federal law, and relevant cases is then presented to show that the federal courts have no jurisdiction in the case, and that the quashing of the indictment therefore does not hold.

Attorney General Wickersham and Special Assistant Reynolds and Mc-Namara signed the brief.

CRIPPEN CONFIDENT OF HIS ACQUITTAL

Left Witness Stand Today After Severe Cross Examination—Thinks Jury is Favorable.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

London, Oct. 21.—Following a severe cross-examination today at the hands of King's Counsel Mr. Dr. Crippen left the witness stand confident he has convinced the jury of his innocence in the alleged murder of his wife.

Dr. Crippen, in his cross examination today, said he had not seen his wife since February, last, and could not prove that she left the house alive but he supposed she had gone to Chicago.

He found his wife missing when he returned home in the evening but made no inquiries as to her whereabouts.

He admitted Miss Lane had slept in the house the night of Feb. 2, within twenty-four hours after his wife had disappeared.

It was at his suggestion, he admitted, that she disguised herself and sailed for Canada with him.

The defense in the Crippen case ended today with the summing up of the address by Counsel Tobin. The prosecution will close tomorrow morning after which the case will go to the jury. A verdict is expected tomorrow afternoon.

ARE BALLOONS LOST IN NORTHERN WOODS?

Alarm is Expressed For Three Balloons Which Are Still Unheard
From—World's Record Broken.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—Increased alarm is felt today for the three balloons yet unreported in the international balloon race. The American
H. G. Hermann, and Swiss Zurro continue today in their nearly flight, else they are down in a trackless wilderness. There is small doubt the world's record of one thousand, one hundred and ninety-three miles has not been broken.

Alarmed at the prolonged silence of three of the balloons, the Aero club today asked the Canadian government to begin a hunt for them. It is believed the men are in distress in the forests of Canada.

Helvetia Down. Oct. 21.—A dispatch here from Hallyburg, Ont., says the balloon "Helvetia" landed at St. Isidore, Quebec province, 50 miles east of here. The distance from St.
Louis is 1,500 miles.

Germania Lands. Oct. 21.—The balloon
"Germania" landed today at Villa Mare, a small village reached only three times a week by boat, according to a message from Hallyburg, fifty miles from Villa Mare.

FOSSIL SHELLS AT THE STONE QUARRY

Whole Mine of Them Uncovered in Ledge of Yellow Limestone at the Quarry This Week.

Fossil clams and snails, some as large as one's fist, and queer objects which the workmen regard as por-tended rather than as fossils, were discovered through a large ledge of yellow limestone which was uncovered at the stone quarry, located west of the city, near the brickyard, this week.
Numerous pieces of fossil black-jack or lead-ore and traces of iron were also present and some of the mineral formations had the green and yellow tint of gold and were very beautiful.
The fossil shells are numerous and in the harder blue limestone and the surfaces of some of them are covered with tiny crystals which sparkle like the "frosting" on the Christmas cards. Sept. W. E. Dulla has brought a number of the specimens to town.
Two hundred and fifty pounds of dynamite were used yesterday in setting off one of the prehistoric bluffs in the blue limestone that has been exposed for a long time. The disrupted rock rose twenty feet and fell back on its own base, scattering scarcely a single fragment.

here today on the application for a

the mine and to do bodily harm to the non-union miners now employed there.

POSTPONED GAME UNTIL SATURDAY

WET GROUNDS CAUSES TODAY'S CONTEST TO BE PUT OFF
UNTIL TOMORROW.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

a drizzling, intermittent rain caused the postponement of today's game be-

The game will be played off tomor-

Chicago win, the fifth game will be played on the local grounds also, is a sixth game is necessary it will be played on Tuesday next in Philadel-

NAVIGATORS OF AIR GATHER IN GOTHAM

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Oct. 21.—An international aviation meet, the first big affair of its kind to be held in America, will begin tomorrow and continue for a week at Belmont Park, the magnificent race track and grounds on Long Island, within easy access of this city.

With the most daring aviators of Europe and America engaged in daily contests, with the latest models of heavier-than-air machines striving to excel in power, speed and endurance, with the Coupe Internationale d'Aviation heading the list of trophies, with over $50,000 in cash prizes and a daily attendance expected to reach ten thousand, the International Aviation Tournament, as the meet is officially designated, is expected to mark the highest point yet gained in the science of aeronautics.

The international meet was inaugurated by the French Aero club, the parent aeronautical organization of the world. It was first held on the great Betheny Plains, near Rheims, last year. Speed was then the greatest aid sought by flyers. For that reason it was decided that the pilot who won the speed contest would have the right to demand that the next international meet be held in his country.
In an untired biplane of his own make Glenn H. Curtiss of Hammondsport, N. Y., won the event and thereby accrued to the United States the international meet of this year.

Among the noted European aviators who will take part in the events of the week are Charles Graham-White, James Hargrave and Alex. Ogilvie of England, Albert LeMaire, Count de Lecassus, Hubert Latham, Jacques
Fauré and M. Lacombe of France, and individual entries from Italy, Germany and Holland.

clude John Moisant, J. Armstrong
Drexel, Charles K. Hamilton, Walter A. Brookins, Ralph Johnstone, Captain Thomas S. Baldwin, Charles E.
Willard, T. C. Shriver and several others who are almost as well known.

BUYING MOVEMENT BEGINNING TO LAG

Egerton Reporter Says There is Not Much Activity in Market For New Crop of Tobacco.

The buying movement in the new crop bears evidence of lagging somewhat. There is some riding in the growing districts and contracts closed for both the better crops and for low grades around prices before quoted for these goods, but no great activity is developing.

There is more life however in the search of old leaf remaining in growers' hands, which in the aggregate is moving quite large quantities. B. Hardwick sold 45c of '09, Martin Mason 40c, J. M. Vickers 4c in bundle to Cullum; Halverton & Co. sold 44c, T. B. Twopen 47c, Sam Tolberg 30c '09 to A. S. Plank; Jean Martin, 24c '07 to Loomis and C. K. Nordlie 50c '07 to Hopkins.

There is a little fall too, in the movement among packers again. A lot of 182c of '06, owned by Thompson & Clarke has been disposed of.

The weather up to the present writing has been decidedly favorable to the curing of the shredded crop, but the prospects point to cooler weather and a season of rains.

These shipments out of storage reach 52 cases from this market to all points for the week just.

Such splendid casing weather of late has given hope that even the late cutting may have a chance to cure down and escape the danger from the first hard freeze that enters the sheds.

There seems to be a desire on the part of some dealers to put sample lots of the new crop over the sorting table and determine what percentage of available binder leaf it will yield before increasing their holdings. They believe they would be able to buy more intelligently if they only knew how much worm and grasshopper eaten leaf must be thrown out in warehouse handling to bring the grades up to standard. Forearmed with this information, they could then be able to better tell what they could afford to pay for the running lots as it hangs upon the poles or in bundles.

The holding off of killing frosts until late in the third week of October, has given growers ample opportunity to harvest the very latest of their tobacco fields this season, which is such a rare occurrence as to deserve mention. Ordinarily the 20th of September is late a date in this state when tobacco can be safely left standing in the fields.

BUT A FEW CASES OF DELINQUENCY

But Twenty Parents in County Who Have Not Had Children Enrolled For First Month of School.

Twenty cases of delinquency on the part of parents for failing to send their children to school so that the youngsters will be enrolled on the first month of school have been reported to County Superintendent of Schools O. D. Antidel. Under the law the parents are required to do and notices to this effect have been sent to the delinquents. Children of from seven to fourteen years, in school's under the charge of the county superintendent, must, by law, attend school at least one hundred and twenty days in the year. Between two hundred and two hundred and fifty cases where the parents were neglectful were reported to the county superintendent last year, which is not a large number and the percentage thus far this year is light.

Teachers' Exams.
About half a dozen applicants are writing on examinations for teachers' certificates at the county superintendent's office today and will be continued until tomorrow. The examinations will include those for progressive work, which means advancement for the successful participants.

SEASON OF WORK AT SUGAR PLANT BEGAN THURSDAY

Three Hundred and Fifty Men Given Employment in Handling Beets And in Processes of Making Sugar.

Work for the season at the factory of the Rock County Sugar company was commenced yesterday and will be continued until about the first of January. In the neighborhood of three hundred and fifty men are working at the factory at present on the day and night shifts, but when the season is in its height, it is expected that nearly four hundred men will be employed. The beets are coming in at a good rate and are of a good quality. The prospects for a good season are bright and if the weather continues cool, without rain, it is anticipated they will yield high test sugar. The crop is much larger this year than last by about eight thousand tons and preparations are being made for handling between forty-five and fifty thousand tons of beets. The past season has been a fairly good one for the growers. The crop at first was excellent, but the warm weather a few days ago acted as a detriment, but cool weather it is expected will offset that. Between nine and ten millions of pounds of sugar, it is estimated, will be manufactured this year.

Heart Interest.
Neo love naturally all that comes from the heart, all that is great, all that dazzles, and even all that is strange. A heroic act or a single act of generosity moves them infallibly and provokes their enthusiasm. They see these acts; they do not see the justice in the heart of the just.—Julius Simon.

Frenchman Clings to Land.
There are upward of 8,000,000 separate freeholds in France, as compared with about 300,000 in Great Britain, a fact which in itself speaks volumes. A Frenchman will part with anything rather than land.

BAD BOYS RAMPANT THROUGHOUT CITY

Ringling Doorbells, Tying Door Shut, Plugging Keyholes, Stealing Umbrellas, and Otherwise Annoying Residents.

On Quality Hill and in the south end of town as well, the pranks of gangs of mischievous boys are excooding the bounds of harmless mischief and becoming not only tedious but unendurable.

About nine o'clock last evening, Chief Appleby and Officer Sam Brown responded to a call to Ogden H. Fother's home on St. Lawrence avenue to find that the front door had been so "rigged" from the outside with a stick and rope as to make the entrance of a party of guests impossible.

The officers responded promptly to the summons not a boy was in sight throughout the entire neighborhood. Chief Appleby, recognizing the fact that "boys will be boys," paid no attention to the incessant ringing of his doorbell by young scamps who vanished at the sound of an approaching footstep, and even smiled good naturedly when they opened the front door and hung a shower of soft cushions at the reading lamp in the living room, but when they ran away with an umbrella belonging to a guest, he thought things were being carried too far and remonstrated to the police.

Mrs. Hermann Gerloff was called away from her home at 313 Western avenue last evening, to attend for sick mother. She returned to find the keyhole in the door had been "unlocked" with splinters and dirt so that it was impossible to get in and that the porch had been littered and strewn with the filthiest kind of refuse.

It is "up to" the parents of youths who run the streets night to take steps to restrain them. Otherwise there will be some heavy fines to pay in the near future. The police are going after these gangs of boys and will eventually run some of them down, if they have to don plain clothes and camp out all night in the trouble districts. After the outrage at the Gerloff home last evening three suspicious looking youths were spotted at a grocery store. One of them carried a stick which was dubbed with a stone and the other two, who had been plastered over the porch. This lot will be run down and if found guilty, will be punished in a fashion which they will not soon forget.

Women on French Jury.

A movement is being made in certain quarters in France to bring about the representation of women on the jury. It long has been felt that to try women for crime before a court where the jury is composed entirely of men is an unnatural and unfair proceeding.

HORSE ON PENSION

Jerry, Equine Detective, Given Allowance for Services.

Corporation, Recognizing Eighteen Years of Faithfulness, Will Make Life Easy Rest of Animal's Days.

Spokane, Wash. — Jerry, faithful servant and one-time detective, has been pensioned by a great express company after serving that corporation for 18 years.

Jerry is not an ordinary being. Unlike many who have fitted into the scheme of a great business, Jerry never would work on Sunday, however pressing might have been the occasion.

Jerry is now gelding 15½ hands high and weighs 1,350 pounds. He was foaled in 1886. Jerry's pedigree is not worth mentioning. He was a work horse and served 18 years without a day off or a vacation.

Needless faithfully pulling the wagon, Jerry has guarded the company's treasures. Several years ago there apparently was a hold-up in the yard in the rear of the office. Jerry's driver proved to be the hold-up. Robbing himself, he pretended to be the victim of bandits. To carry out his deception the driver had fired one shot into the wall and was about to fire again. Just then Jerry got an idea. He suddenly backed the wagon, the wheel hit the revolver, turned it and the bullet buried itself in the driver's leg. The seeming mystery surrounding the robbery was solved soon afterward.

Eighteen years ago, when the population of Spokane was less than 15,000 Jerry and his team mate were bought by the company, the price paid being $600. They made the rounds together until 1899, when the mate died. Jerry was put between the shafts of a single wagon and he made the rounds alone, simply because he would not quit double. He never forgot his team mate.

Jerry became the pet of the office force, the favorite of merchants and of the barn men through his intelligence and gentleness. He always had a box stall. Some time ago one of the horses in the barn became ill. Jerry was put in a single stall that the illing animal might have the box. Now this was not to Jerry's liking. He had been wronged and he knew it. He set his slant heels to work, making the box rapidly. He was ready for the big posts when the barn men led him to his stall.

Jerry was punctual. When the seven o'clock whistle blew, he left his comfortable stall and calmly walked upstairs to his wagon, backed between the tills and waited to be harnessed. He was willing to work, but he was as willing to quit. Promptly at six o'clock in the evening Jerry started for the barn. No hitching weight would deter him, unless it had been fastened to the pavement.

Jerry knew his way around town, too, and never missed a stop. He had watched the city grow to 120,000 population. He saw 15-story structures take the place of squat brick buildings, but in the hustle of development he kept up with the times.

Having earned his rest, Jerry will be sent into a pasture in the Spokane valley, about five miles from the scene of his labor. He will run knee-deep in clover and alfalfa with the fragrant odors from surrounding orchards and the perfume of wild flowers to whet his appetite and woo him to sleep when the sun has slipped behind the western hills.

GOOD SECRET OF LONGEVITY

Centenarian in New Jersey Tells Women to Read, and Gossip Less About Neighbors.

Patterson, N. J.—Mrs. Jane Beam, who is one hundred and two years old, gives this word of advice to those who wish to achieve a happy old age. "Read good books and don't gossip about your neighbors."

The books which she names as her recipe for longevity are: "The Bible," "Spurgeon's Sermons," "Paley's Philosophy," "The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life," "The Pennywise Pilgrim," "The Unrolled Things of Scripture" and "The Holy Land." "Reading," said Mrs. Beam, "clears the mind and broadens it. It keeps one young and gives no time for worry or opportunity to think evil things of your neighbors. If more women refrained from criticizing the actions of their neighbors they would not have so many gray hairs."

Lord's Prayer on Coin.

New York.—A curious specimen of the fine work of a famous old American engraver, A. W. Overbaugh, has come to light in a little Staten Island town. The coin is an ancient gold dollar, in the center of which, in a circle one-sixth of an inch in diameter, Overbaugh engraved the Lord's prayer. The inscription cannot be seen with the naked eye, but is distinct with the aid of glasses. The engraving was done on a wager.

When Mr. Smith—your intimate friend Smith—awoke the other morning he was greeted by his wife with this:

"My sweet boy, do you know you came home late last night, and that you talked in your sleep?"

"I just couldn't make it all out, but it sounded like anti-up-jack pot stake."

"Ah," observed Bismarck, "it was a long time before my poor mother could be persuaded that in hatching me she had not produced a goose."

Death Verdict for Slayer.

Plaquemine, La., Oct. 21.—Frank Oster was found guilty of the murder of Jeremiah P. Stephens of St. John, Mich., by a jury. The verdict carries the death penalty.

INSULTS TO ROYALTY.

Some of the Things That Constitute Lèse Majesté in England.

Many people think that lese majesty—giving insult to royalty—is not a crime in Great Britain. The English statute books, however, contain many penalties for such offenses.

Placing a postage stamp on a letter upside down is a punishable offense, as is also the defacement of a coin bearing the royal image. This is insulting the king's effigy.

Private individuals may not raise the royal standard over their dwellings. This is the emblem of the royal authority to be displayed only where the king is present.

While an agitator may talk against royalty in the abstract as much as he chooses, contemptuous or insulting personal references to the reigning sovereign opens the offender to a heavy fine and imprisonment.

The slightest slap upon the face of the king or queen—or any other part of the monarchy, for that matter—is punishable with the death penalty. In the reign of Queen Victoria a Lieutenant Page struck her across the face with his cane. He was sentenced to death, but the queen commuted his sentence.

It is likewise a crime to bring the uniform of the sovereign into contempt. To garb a low comedian or a villain of the stage in a discarded uniform of the army or the navy is sufficient to bring heavy censure from the government. For this reason theatrical managers usually see to it that the uniforms worn are not exactly copies of the real things.

Dress by Inspiration.

Painful results are produced by the fondness of women for clothing themselves in anything they happen to know others are wearing. The same forms and colors are repeated indefinitely without any regard for their fitness to the wearer. Truly intelligence in dress comes by inspiration alone and cannot be bought.

Mourning Checks.

"What do you think I received the other day from a woman recently bereaved?" said a business man. "Nothing less than a check heavily bordered with black, just the same as mourning stationery. I didn't know that the etiquette of grief had invaded the domain of finance, but it seems that this is the case."

QUESTIONS ROOSEVELT'S WORD.

Prof. Woodruff Hurla "Shorter and Uglier" at Colonel.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Twice in his speech last night Prof. E. H. Woodruff of Cornell university called Theodore Roosevelt a liar, once an "unmitigated liar."

His attack, made at a political rally over which he presided, threw the house into an uproar.

As soon as Professor Woodruff took the floor he began to open up the Bellamy Storer episode which Colonel Roosevelt only recently declared was closed. He charged that when the colonel denied sending Bellamy Storer to the Vatican he was "an unmitigated liar" and there were letters in his possession, said the professor, to bear him out.

The uproar had barely subsided when the professor took up his cudgel again. Roosevelt was twice a liar, he said, when he denied that the late E. H. Harriman had subscribed to a corruption fund to be used for Roosevelt's election to the presidency.

PAYS $1,200 IN TOLONO CASE.

Miss Kelly Satisfies Judgment After Being Fugitive Four Years.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 21.—Miss Annie Kelly of Champaign, formerly a Tolono teacher, after being a fugitive from the law for four years, has capitulated by paying over to William Burke of Tolono $1,200 damages. She is now free to go where she will and the "Tolono school case," which has been featured in newspapers all over the country, is ended. Because they alleged that she and her principal, Sherman Case, had seriously injured their fourteen-year-old boy Michael by whipping him, Burke sued and obtained damages of $1,800. After spending six months in jail Case paid $800, but Miss Kelly fled.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Practically all of the corporation tax, aggregating in excess of $27,000,000, has been collected by the treasury department. The officials declare it was collected with less annoyance and was paid apparently with less reluctance than any other internal revenue tax imposed.

Want Ads being treated.

FOUND WANTING

Hartney has always cherished tender recollections of his Cousin Lucy. When he was a small boy his parents frequently used to take him back to the small town from which they both had come. There he roamed among uncles and aunts, grandmothers and cousins galore, all of whom he accepted light-heartedly, as belonging to the established order of things. Lucy especially was his charm. She had big blue eyes and a wide mouth that always laughed and a most wonderful knowledge of birds and bugs and toads. Everybody remarked how beautifully the two got along together.

They exchanged Christmas presents and kept up a correspondence till they both were grown. Then outside interests gradually divided them. Hartney hadn't been back to the old town in years.

In the first place, his wife always preferred to go east or to Europe when he had any spare time, and in the second place there really wasn't anything to go back for, since he had outgrown the joys of blackberrying and making sand pies.

But it was with real pleasure that Hartney recently learned over the telephone by the voice of Cousin Lucy herself that she was in town for the day on her way east. She said she had Cousin Bertha's daughter with her and they would be delighted to accept Hartney's invitation to luncheon.

Hartney determined they should have a luncheon they would remember. He reserved a table at one of the most fashionable places in town and even made out a menu with considerable care.

The cousins greeted each other with genuine affection. Then Cousin Lucy said, in a surprised tone, indicating the tall and awkward girl of 17 who was with her, "Why, Cousin Henry, don't you remember Adeline? Cousin Bertha's daughter, you know. Of course, she was a good deal younger when you saw her last. Come to think of it, she was only 2 when you saw her before. That was the year the barn burned down. You remember about the barn?"

To Hartney's embarrassment he did not in the least remember about the barn, but he had the presence of mind to conceal the fact. Still, he was startled to find that Cousin Lucy was bubbling over with conversation about the relations whom he remembered only dimly or not at all.

"You'd never know Aunt Salina," she told him over the soup. "She's gained forty-five pounds and hasn't an ache or pain and it's just because she stopped taking those bitters she counted so much on. Didn't she always do her hair up queer?"

"I should say she did!" Hartney responded. To himself he was repeating over and over, "Aunt Salina? Which one was she?"

"Of course, you know about Artie," Cousin Lucy remarked, as she accepted, without any display of interest the specially prepared chicken with its wonderful sauces. She said it in a tone which made one realize how utterly unthinkable it was not to know about Artie, so Hartney said, ably, "Oh, yes!"

"Well," pursued his cousin, with some excitement, "what do you think about it, really? I'd like your opinion! Could he have done otherwise than he did?"

Hartney began to periphrase. Cousin Bertha's daughter was eyeing him critically and offering no help, so there was no escape. "I'm afraid I don't know anything about it," he confessed. "I—"

"What?" Cousin Lucy exclaimed, aggressively. "I should think at least you'd take enough interest in your relations to remember when one of them gets a divorce! You remember what a pretty girl she was—Hattie Smith, the blond one?"

"Yes," said Hartney, diplomatically, but his tone betrayed him.

"Henry," said Cousin Lucy, "do you mean to say you don't recall Hattie Smith, though you used to eat cookies by the ton at her mother's? I'm surprised at you! I think Hattie always was a little flighty after Tom's death."

"Oh, was she married before?" Hartney ventured.

"Tom," said Cousin Lucy, coldly, "was her brother. You used to go fishing with Tom. There were items in all the newspapers about his awful death—"

"Why, of course," interrupted Hartney. "I have some of this salad dressing—it's a special kind. How do you like these tomatoes?"

"We grow bigger ones in our garden," said Cousin Lucy. "Of course, these are fixed up different. Uncle John's laid up with his leg again."

"You'd better come out and see us, Henry," Cousin Lucy said, a trifle severely, when they parted. "You seem to have forgotten a lot and we're your own people, you know. Of course, it's been a good many years and I can understand your forgetting just ordinary things, but how on earth you could have forgotten about Artie's divorce beats me!"

"I think I will run out for a little visit next month," Hartney promised her, abjectly.

"They didn't pay much attention to the lunch, because it wasn't like what they got at home," he murmured, as he watched the departing train. "They'd rather have had corn beef and cabbage! Say, I got in wrong all around!"

NATURE'S MYSTERIES.

And the Little That Man Really Knows About Them.

I seized the opportunity some little while ago on finding myself sitting next to a great physicist of asking him a series of fumbling questions on the subject of modern theories of matter. For an hour I stammered like a child, supported by a strong hand, in a dim and unfamiliar world, among the mysterious essences of things. I should like to try to reproduce it here, but I have no doubt I should reproduce it all wrong. Still, it was deeply inspiring to look out into chaos, to hear the rush and motion of atoms moving in vast vortexes, to learn that beside the hard and most impenetrable of substances there was probably a feverish intensity of inner motion. I do not know that I acquired any precise knowledge, but I drank deep draughts of wonder and awe.

The great man, with his amused and weary smile, was infinitely gentle and left me, I will say, far more conscious of the beauty and the holiness of knowledge. I said something to him about the sense of power that such knowledge must give. "Ah," he said, "much of what I have told you is not proved; it is only suspected. We are very much in the dark about these things yet. Probably if a physicist of a hundred years hence could overhear me he would be amazed to think that a sensible man could make such peculiar statements. Power—no, it is not that! It rather makes one realize one's feebleness in being so uncertain about things that are absolutely certain and precise in themselves. If we could but see the truth, it is much more like the apostle who said: 'Lord, I believe, Help thou my unbelief.' The thing one wonders at is the courage of the men who dare to think they know." Putnam's.

Popcorn to Cure Nausea.

New York Life.

The life of New York seems a tragic muddle, a religious confusion, the maddest blend in all Christendom of common sense and lunacy, dignity and folly, poetry and a furious program against everything that makes for beauty.—Pall Mall Gazette.

If we work upon marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time will efface it; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we work upon our immortal minds, if we imbue them with principle, with the just fear of God and our fellow-man—we engrave on these tablets something which will brighten to all eternity.—Daniel Webster.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

ALMOST any coward will fight if there is a wall behind him so he can't run.

When a woman wants a new hat a paper bag of candy won't do her instead.

It is easy enough to please people if you first know what they want and then give it to them just as they want it.

It is a good thing to make hay while the haying is good.

Removing ourselves from the scene of immediate action is sometimes our very best stunt.

Getting into a place that he is too small to fill sometimes plagues a man.

Being worsted in a deal is simply insufferable—unless you get the first and best chance to tell it yourself.

It is hard to believe that we are in the wrong, but sometimes our friends just won't let us believe anything else.

A reformer is a person who, not being able to have things his way, is trying to keep the other crowd from having theirs.

While feeling that the Ten Commandments are needless, we are quite willing that others should keep them.

The Real Arbitrator.

It does not matter very much just how the platform tries to please. Nor yet the words the candidate in torrents tosses on the breeze. The only thing you want to know is what the matter really plain is what philanthropist or trust finances largely the campaign.

Words that are not enough to burn are often in the platform with. And, according to him who says by them. The candidate may throw a fit. But when it comes to living up to promises so loud and strong it all depends on how it will assist the paying ones along.

In statesmanship the candidate may take a just and honest pride. And he might live to make his mark. Were there no jokers on the side. But he must always keep in mind the friends who furnished funds to float into the harbor. Right side up.

So, neatly hobbled in advance. He takes the legislator's chair. And if he does not understand some other body why he is there. And so he looks some doubtful things. And some well meaning measures kill. He loves his country, yes, indeed. But, oh, you man who paid the bills!

Wider Field.

"Hear about" that guy what got let out of de pen because he 'wrote' poetry?"

"No, is dat right?"
"Sure thing. Say, a handy man like dat oughter be able to make a living wid his pen."
"He outer make a great forger."

His Support.

"He thinks he is so important."
"He probably is important to himself."
"Yes, but he knows there is one person more important to him than himself."
"Who is that?"
"His wife."

Variety of Ways.

"I wish I knew some way to get even with the railroad company."
"Walk."
"Too hard work."
"Stay home."
"You mean nothing."
"Then pay your fare and make faces at the conductor."

Her Usefulness.

"She is such a flirt."
"Is she?"
"I should say so."
"Well, I suppose she has to have something in the scheme of things to do."

Good Way.

"Hear about Brown?"
"No. What did he do?"
"Got rich, quick."
"Is that so? How did he do it?"
"Married a rich widow."

Mistaken.

"Your dog bit me."
"Well, he didn't mean to do it."
"Didn't mean to do it?"
"No. You see, he thought you were little pig sausage."

Consequently Plugging.

"The best way to get to the point."
"I guess it is to the fellow who keeps a constant coming along."

MILLION IS PLEDGED TO EXPAND Y. M. C. A.

Rockefeller Gives $450,000 of Total—Taft Indorses Move to Invade Far East.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Contributions of $1,000,000 for a world-wide expansion of the Young Men's Christian association, $450,000 of which total was given by John D. Rockefeller, were announced at a conference of Young Men's Christian association workers in the East room of the White House. President Taft addressed the delegates and heartily indorsed the organization.

Mr. Rockefeller's gift, tendered on the condition that a like amount be raised, was met by contributions from many prominent laymen interested in the movement, among them John W. Wamamaker, Cleveland Dodge of New York, who pledged funds for two buildings in the Levant; H. W. Woodward of Washington, $25,000 for a building at Kobe; James Stokes and an unknown donor, $100,000 for a building at Moscow; John Penman of Paris, Ont., $50,000 for a building at Hankow, China; John W. Ross, for the Montreal Y. M. C. A., $400,000 for a building at Canton, China; Dupont Charles, Jr., funds for a building at Shanghai, China, and citizens of Buffalo, $25,000 for building in Tokyo.

Offer by Wamamaker.
Mr. Wamamaker offered to erect another building in China in addition to five foreign association buildings already given by him.

The subject of the conference was that of extension of the movement to the far east, the near east and to Latin America. More than 200 laymen from 21 states and Canada were present.

FINAL DECREE

FOR

RUBEROID COLORED ROOFINGS

The higher court appealed to—THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS—affirms the decision of the Hon. Judge G. W. Ray rendered January 24, 1910, in the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, which holds that J. A. & W. Bird and the Flintkote Manufacturing Co. have infringed

THE STANDARD PAINT CO.'S PATENTS

Nos. 775,035 and 775,036

and finds fully in favor of RUBEROID COLORED ROOFINGS.

Here is an extract from the Hon. Judge Ray's Decision which the Court of Appeals has upheld:

"The roofing of the defendants alleged to infringe is known as ZOLITM. I think the evidence establishes that the first successful COLORED ROOFING upon the market was this COLORED RUBEROID made in accordance with the claims of the patents in suit. They are popular and have an extensive and increasing sale. They are pleasing and attractive in appearance to those who desire a colored roof and who use a roofing of this character. It is shown that these roofings are durable and serviceable, and that the coloring is permanent.

"All the constituent elements of a product, a new article of manufacture, may be old, as of course these were, but this product as a complete article of manufacture was new, and it was better than any that had gone before. The inventors did more than those ordinarily skilled in the art would do. There was mental conception, long experimentation and a valuable and a new result.

"The process pointed out in the patent which varies from the prior art was successful. The prior art was not. There is difficulty in pointing out why the one is successful when the other was not and probably all the reasons are not known, but the discovery was patentable and the defendants infringed by using it.

"I am therefore constrained to hold that both patents in suit (as to claims in issue) are valid and that defendants infringe.

"There will be a decree accordingly and for an injunction and an accounting."

This is the substance of the decision:

Existing imitations of COLORED RUBEROID are prohibited—no permanent colored roofing can be manufactured except under The Standard Paint Company's patents.

The experiments referred to by the Honorable Judge, developed a number of interesting facts concerning roofing materials. These and full particulars of the original RUBEROID have been embodied in a book, entitled, "ALL ABOUT ROOFING."

Send for this book. It will be mailed free immediately upon receipt of request.

Your Suit or Overcoat Purchased Here Means the Maximum of Value At the Minimum of Price

You may be one of the great majority of clothing buyers who patronize this store, and know the wisdom of it; if you find yourself on the minority side however, just remember that you have as much right to share in the values of Rehberg's as any man in Janesville. Suits and Overcoats from the best makers. Each is designed to meet particular tastes of particular men who want their clothes to suit them, not only as to wearing quality, but as to style, fit and trimmings. Rehberg's three stores—Clothing, Shoes, Furnishings—have won their way into the good will of the trading public on the merit of their merchandizing excellence in selections and a choice of styles that win approval. There is a fall or winter Suit or Overcoat here for every man. In our unexcelled assortments you will find a style to suit your fancy and purse.

The Dressiest Men Wear These Lines

FAMOUS E. & S. SYSTEM CLOTHES for young men will give you perfect fit, tailoring, plus a hundred added qualities that make the clothes more becoming, better looking, more desirable. There is style, harmony, fitness. They give you better service. They yield the most satisfaction your money can procure. Wear E. & S. Clothes this fall at $20, $22.50 and $25, Suit or Overcoat.

MICHAELS, STERN CLOTHES for men who know a good deal about clothes, who discriminate in fabrics, who have cultivated ideas about choice patterns and refined styles and who know real values. You are very keen about the many kinds of clothes you don't want. Isn't this true? Inspect Michaels, Stern clothes here to your satisfaction. They are pretty sure to upset some of your "notions" about values. $15 to $22.50, Suit or Overcoat.

HIRSH-WICKWIRE CLOTHES rival the custom made. Authoritative styles are absolute in this line of clothes. They are built for men of more sober tastes, yet who care to be correctly dressed. All hand tailored, finely finished, all pure wool goods and so far as styles are concerned they are far superior to custom tailored garments at twice the price, $25 to $30, Suit or Overcoat.

WUNDERHOSE Stand the Rub and the Stub

Wunderhose are guaranteed to wear for four months or they will be replaced free. They are warranted to wear four months without breaking through heel, sole or toe.

In Wunderhose there are no heavy, cumbersome bunches at the heel and toe as found in most all guaranteed hose.

These parts are made to stand the "rub and the stub" but not at the expense of comfort.

The strength and long wear are secured by the fineness of the material used and the exclusive Wunderhose process of knitting rather than by bulk and thickness.

They are shaped in the knitting—shaped to the true foot and ankle form. They are as neat and stylish as the most expensive hose you can buy. The colors are always fashionable—and they are fast. They wear as well as the hose.

Written guarantee in each box of four, at $1.00.

Latest Hat Styles

The smartest styles for Fall and Winter wear, both in soft and stiff hats, are to be found at Rehberg's.

If it is a question of quality—of value for the money—then a hat from Rehberg's is the logical purchase. If style, appearance, fit, workmanship count with you—then your new hat surely should come from here. Prices range from $1.00 to $4.00.

Sweater Coats

Janesville's finest exhibit of Sweater Coats is made at Rehberg's; every style V neck, roll, storm and reversible collars; white and all the different color combinations.

Very serviceable; very desirable at this time of the year. Priced from 50c to $5.00.

Rehberg's Great Shoe Dept.

is headquarters for the highest quality shoes made and shows the best models from the best makers, Queen Quality and Selby Shoes, for ladies; Bostonians and Kneelands for men.

You must be sure to see the new shoes for Fall and Winter which we have ready to show you. The security we offer you in the certainty of best quality, in perfection of workmanship, and in exactly the right fit, in smart style and in satisfaction guaranteed; these things are worth what you pay for shoes here; and you have the shoes.

Here you'll find shapes and ideas that you won't find elsewhere.

The shoes for ladies are displayed in the new short vamp effects with high tops and the newest ideas in cravenette uppers. Queen Quality and Selby lines never appealed more strongly to ladies of refined taste in their exquisite lines, beautiful styles and fineness of manufacture. $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00.

For years we have had Bostonian and Kneeland shoes for men and season after season they have met with success. This year the manufacturers have gone to even greater efforts than before to produce the best shoe made anywhere. The swing last with high knob toes is a very desirable shoe, heavy enough for winter, dressy enough for any occasion, $3, $3.50 and $4.

Some exceptionally swaggy styles for young men are shown exclusively by us, at $3.00 and $3.50.

Make Use of Your Gifts

By REV. ADNER H. LUCAS, D. D.

Text.—And in such, leave us not, I pray thee, for as much as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be with us instead of eyes.—Num. 10:31.

What more glorious use can be made of knowledge, influence, and personal strength than to turn them to the help of the needy? If your vision is penetrating and clear, what nobler service can you render than to "be eyes" for those who may not see afar? If your hand has strength and cunning, to what better use may it be turned than lifting the burdens of the weak and teaching the unskilled how best to accomplish their task?

If you have wealth you have possession of a power for good which is nearly omnipotent, if rightly applied. What more worthy aim can lead men and women of wealth than that through their help the poor may catch visions of the highest and holiest life? If we have the gift of prophecy, we must use it for the instruction of the ignorant. If we retain it, to hesitate is ingloriously to fail; so bravely to keep for ourselves what God has intended shall serve his children, is to lose life with all its opportunities of good. Hobab's knowledge and influence never were more precious to him than when, having refused the appeal to enrich himself, he accepted the opportunity to assist others. As the new dangers arose, and he helped Moses meet them, and conquer them, his own mind and soul grew imperishable. By the number, magnitude, and stress of the responsibilities of others, he was developed into his own worthiest life. When a great Indian commander was defeated he learned his immortal appeal: "Soldiers, I am without money and without reward. I have nothing to offer you but cold and hunger, and rags and hardship. Let him who loves his country follow me." But with that summons to self-denial and patriotism he gathered to his side the choicest souls of his generation. The men who followed in response to that appeal became courageous heroes themselves. When our Lord turned and said to the multitude, "The Son of man hath not to where to lay his head," and invited them to follow him, he was calling to men and women who had counted the cost, and were ready to surrender themselves to the cause of purity, truth, and human helpfulness. The way of life is narrow; the gate to it is narrow; but the narrowness of the way and the gate are its glory. Narrowness of the way demands energy, high purpose and noble perseverance. There is no other way. To invite a great soul to a broad path is to invite him to smallness, to the cessation of growth and impotence. The cry has been heard in every age, "Would God it were easier to be good!" And would God it were easier to redeem the earth! But that is a mistaken cry. When the ten spies returned from Canaan murmuring because of the obstacles to their conquest, their murmuring was an evidence of weakness of character; but the cry of Caleb and Joshua was, "Up, let us conquer these giants, and take their walled cities." That was the token of the greatness of the two.

Jesus Christ did not come primarily to change the circumstances that should make life easy, but to give a new incentive and lofty inspiration that would enable men to meet life's circumstances as they are. He never promised his friends that the path of duty should be free from danger. In the spirit of the Spartan mother who charged her soldier son, "Come home with your shield or on it," Christ says to his disciples, "Take the field and save humanity, cost what it may." It is always true that the choice of the broad path of personal ease and comfort, instead of the narrow path of duty, leads to the loss of self-respect, the world's esteem, and true success. Sir Henry Stanley describes bravery as a requisite for those who push into the African forest, and says: "The bigger the work the greater the joy of doing it. The whole-hearted striving and wrestling with difficulty to lay hold with a firm grip and level head, and the calm resolution of the monster, and tugging and tolling and wrestling at it today, tomorrow, and the next, until it is done—the soldier's creed of forward, ever forward; it is a man's faith that for this task he was born." When McKay wrote from Uganda in Africa to the home church, he said, "For our work at this station we want the best men in England; not a man who can be easily spared, but a man who cannot be spared." Christianity from the beginning has grown upon tasks that were so great as to require the consecration of all its power. "O, pray not for easy lives, pray to be stronger men; do not pray for power equal to your tasks; then the doing of your work shall be miracle, but you shall be a miracle; every day you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of the life which has come to you by the grace of God."

Final Aim.

The main reason why men are so quickly swept off their feet by passion, why gambling and lust and drink are so strong, is because God has not been chosen as the final aim of life to furnish a standing check upon the tiger and the ape in the menagerie of the soul.—Rev. J. P. D. Lewyd, Presbyterian, Seattle.

The Difference.

Many of the poor men covet the rich man's wealth, and most of the rich men covet the poor man's health.

Great Silk Special

One of the greatest silk purchases ever pulled off was made by a rich Boston importer recently. We secured several thousand pieces. They are beautiful Swiss Messaline silks, 23 inches wide, that have always retailed for $1.50 per yard. Several large concerns were after them but the Boston House succeeded in landing them at a figure that enables them to sell them to us so that we can retail them for $1.00 per yard. The minute a woman gets hold of this silk she knows that it is not an every day occurrence to be able to buy it for $1.00. While beautifully fine, it is excellent weight. We show it in about 10 shades, the very newest colorings of this season. It will pay you to see these Swiss Messaline silks, as they can never be duplicated at the price.

Curious Coincidence.

The harvest festival was being held in Old Windsor parish church, England, and a verse in the Psalm, "Thou makest darkness and it is night," had just been reached, when all the electric lights went out. A number of candles were borrowed from neighboring houses, and these were fixed upon the pews, so that the service might be concluded.

Landseer a Nature Faker.

An English reviewer gravely assures us that Landseer's famous painting, "Eagles Attacking Swans," is based on an entirely false assumption. Eagles do not battle with swans or other quarry. They strike or pounce upon their prey and never descend to vulgar brawling. This is a handsome compliment to the eagle, but a sad blow for art.

Heat of the Sun.

It is not impossible to express the marvellous power of the sun's heat, but we can admit without shame that it is impossible to comprehend it. The heat emitted by the sun in each second is equal to that which would result from the combustion of eleven quadrillions, six hundred thousand millions of tons of coal burning at the same time.

Good Chinese ink, better known as India ink, improves with age, and should not be used for a few years after it is made. Some persons, in rubbing it up, make circular movements that soon ruin it. It is better to rub it in straight lines backward and forward with the least possible pressure.

WILLIE WISE.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Ruthford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

Her Baby's Smile

On the third night the fairy was late, and for awhile the twins were afraid she wasn't going to come after all. But at last, while they were listening patiently to a long, sleepy story Willy was drawing out, a quick, light tap on the window pane told them she had come back.

"I'm late, I fear," she nodded brightly as she melted easily through the glass and stood on the rug before them. "Until I told her it was to teach someone a lesson, her majesty was a little doubtful about opening the third tear's secrets to any mortal—even to the Sleepyland Twins. The third tear, you see, is most precious—one of the most precious gems in the whole wide world, Fairyland and all."

She poured the third tear into Dorfy's waiting palm, then raised her magic wand and smiled.

The Ticklemouse sniffed the air. Willy and the twins sniffed, too. From the speeding tear-drop in the little girl's hand there came a soft, delicious fragrance unlike any they had ever smelled before.

It was as faint as a pansy's perfume—yet as clinging as that of a hyacinth in the valley. It made the four friends so happy they sat speechless, smiling their surprise and delight.

"Nothing so fragrant in all the world," they knew it they were merrily dancing, fairy and all!

"Sweeter than the song of the lark!" smiled the fairy when they stopped for breath. She waved her magic wand a third time. "And now, look!"

The tear-drop had grown to ocean size—shimmering and sparkling with tints of mother-of-pearl, and all the lovely colors of the rainbow. And in the sparkling sea of colors they saw thousands of fairy faces—all happy, all smiling with great joy.

The fairy turned to Dorfy. "Dear little girlie," she whispered, "shall you ever be cross with the weather again?"

"Oh, no, no!" cried Dorfy, eagerly. "We never knew what wonderful, lovely things the raindrops were, did we, Davy? Tell us, pretty fairy—whose tear was this?"

The fairy smiled happily and tossed the tear bottle into the sparkling sea. Then she bent and kissed little Dorfy and sprang back to the window sill.

"This," she said, watching the golden ripples around the bottle as it sank, "this tear was a tear of pure delight. It was the happy tear of a young mother over her baby's first smile!"

FOR RHEUMATISM.

Rheumatism has for ages been a puzzle to the doctors. Some claim it to be an infection, a germ disease. Others claim that the cause is uric acid, a kidney disease. It is said that uric acid is carried by the blood into the small capillaries of the joints and skin where it crystallizes and it is the small, sharp crystals that cause intense pain with every motion of the body by cutting into the flesh and nerves. Whatever the cause, the best relief known is an Alkali Elixer of the Salfeylates. The chemical nature of the Salfeylates is to form soluble compounds with the uric acid. In this way these crystals are dissolved, taken up by the blood and taken out of the body by the kidneys.

This rheumatic elixer is taken in teaspoonful doses in hot water before meals. The cure is often in a day or two, yet the remedy should be taken for some time to thoroughly neutralize the blood and prevent a recurrence of the trouble. The elimination, as the doctors would say, that is the kidneys and the bowels, should be kept active. Rheumatic Elixer is compounded by Mr. Pfeiffer, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, who would be pleased to give you any other information you wish. Sold at 50c. The Evening Chit-Chat

WHAT! dull, when you do not know what gives its loveliness of form to the lily, its depth of color to the violet, its fragrance to the rose; when you do not know in what consists the venom of the adder any more than you can imitate the glad movements of the dove.

What! dull, when earth, air and water are all alike mysterious to you, and when as you stretch out your hand you do not touch anything the properties of which you have mastered, while all the time nature is inviting you to talk earnestly with her, to understand her, to subdue her and to be you to talk earnestly with her, to understand her, to subdue her and to be you to talk earnestly with her, to understand her, to subdue her and to be know, if I'm not too busy, I actually enjoy sitting in an intelligence office. It's so interesting to study the people who come in. Why, it's really as good as a matinee to me.

At times, if she lives—and I hope she does, for the world needs more like her—that woman will be happy, and still a good companion, both for herself and other people.

Sir Arthur says there are so many tantalizing, defiant mysteries, so many invitations to thought and speculation in nature, that no one has a right to be dull.

Seems to me there are even more delightful mysteries, even more alluring invitations to thought and speculation in the world of men and women about us.

The reason that woman looked fifty instead of sixty was undoubtedly because she had accepted those invitations and had been too busy and too interested to grow old.

An intelligence office, a trolley car, a shop, a hotel lobby, a business office—all these can be as absorbing as a drama or as tedious as a dictionary. It just depends on you.

Which will you have them?

AS OTHERS SEE US.

By MARY RUSSELL.

Too many men think that to demonstrate their ability to rule, they must vent their miserable temper on those who love them in the home and those who fear them in business.

Men are taught more than women about the cowardliness of bullying. Why is it, then, that so many men burn their clerks and browbeat their wives?

The clerk who "cannot" resign and the wife who must "stick to her job" are fair game to many good men. Men who go into the philanthropic work of the world with enthusiasm and give time and money to advancing humanity in general, too often forget to sweep around their own doorsteps—so eager are they for the wider field of action.

Just take a day off and size yourself up as you wish to appear to those most intimately associated with you, and then be honest with that inner self and try to see how you really appeared during the past week in your office and in your home. Go over each detail of the day and see how much you associate with yourself in the business and social world.

I would never know you were the same man that you are in your home," said an unusually frank woman to a man in his office once. He was one of those men who hate society and whose wife was a social favorite. He had admired her social charms. Perhaps he had even married her for them, but as soon as she belonged to him he wanted to retire from the world.

The old instinct of the cave man still survives in many of our contemporaries, and he was one of those in whom the "home" is the purest for women. Ideas were firmly rooted. So he was sudden and harsh when in the society of her friends. In his own world of business he was affable and courteous. He had not played fair to her. They lived widely divergent lives and today are as lonely and miserable as two old people can well be and live.

Search your life and heart—man or woman. See what you really are. Have the courage to see and laugh at your own mistakes—and resolve not to repeat them. Be keen enough, and honest enough, to realize that your house is absurd and come out into the clear light of self-conviction of the mistakes you have made. A man is not wholly irredeemable who can laugh at his own mistakes—and never repeat them.

Women are not exempt from the kind of blindness which has a keen vision for the faults of others and a blind side which they turn toward their own nets. They are quick to see and criticize even those they love the most, and keener and quicker still to find the faults in those who are merely part of their social world. Be honest in your self-analysis. Make no more excuses for yourself and your petulant acts than you would for another. See how you looked to husband or children and be ashamed of it! I am sure you have displayed, the honest—that is the most difficult part of your "trial by jury" of one. It is so difficult not to forgive your own mistakes while hearing down hard on those of others.

Be as pleasant to your husband as you would if he were still the young lover whose admiration you longed to win. Don't you know that you are going to have to live with him through long years and that you will have many a miserable day if you do not keep the respect and love which he has given you as a wooer? Have you done all you could to make him happy while retaining your own self-respect? It is not well to make a slave of a sycophant of yourself, but it is wise to be fair in the game, just as you exact fairness.

Honestly, after you have turned your little rages and sharp speeches over in your mind, were you not rather ridiculous? Did you not look like a common street scold or an overbearing bully? Do you like the view of yourself from the real point of view that counts with those who live with you? Think it over and see if you would not like to place another picture over the one impressed on the mental sensitive plates of those who live with you? It is not too late today, but tomorrow may find it a bad day for taking pictures. The sun does not always shine just right. This is your hour.

For a Yellow Luncheon.

During the golden rod season a very attractive luncheon may be served. Let the rooms and porches be decorated with the feathery yellow blossoms, having all the table pieces low and not too large.

For the menu serve a delicate soup like cream of celery, and on top of each place a spoonful of whipped cream, and for the yellow color just a suggestion of egg yolk from a hard-boiled egg put through a ricer or sieve. If one wishes to omit the soup, a fruit course may be substituted, or both may be served. For the fruit course, the rich yellow of musk melons served in balls made with a French potato cutter and dressed with a bit of lemon juice and powdered sugar, is very good. For the main dish, chicken croquettes with white sauce garnished with grated yellow cheese, might prove most appealing.

With the tea cream, which will be plain vanilla, serve preserved yellow pumpkin. It tastes much better than it sounds and is a beautiful yellow to carry out the color scheme. Cut the pumpkin in dainty cubes and preserve with orange and lemon. It is the custom with many who entertain, when carrying out a color scheme, to tie the rolls with ribbon of the color used in the decoration. Ribbon seems very much out of place on food; it may be used in the table decoration to advantage or to tie up small boxes of candy as favors or in countless pleasing ways, but as an ornament or garnish for food, it seems inappropriate.

Water Melon Rind Pickles.

Peel the rind and cut in one-inch slices, let stand over night in salt water. Make a syrup of four pounds of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of ground cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves and two quarts of vinegar. Tie the slices in a cloth, pour the hot syrup over the drained melon rind, add the slices, let stand 24 hours and reheat the syrup four mornings in succession. Cover for winter use.

FOR THE COLLEGE GIRL.

An odd and attractive coat suit in striped material, ideal for the college girl. The jaunty little coat with its unique arrangement of stripes and simplicity of the material is very chic and youthful. A large gray felt hat with black velvet swathed about it completes the stylish get-up.

Surely in Hard Luck.

A good example of the kind of story Mark Twain used to like to weave into his after-dinner speeches was the tale of the drinker who unwillingly put in an application for membership in a temperance society, called the next day on a three years' voyage, on which he kept his pledge in spite of longing and temptation, and returned to resign only to find that his name had been blackballed originally.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

DIABETES.

Diabetes is a constitutional malnutrition, caused, probably, by failure of the liver and other glands to perform their normal functions, resulting in inability to utilize starch and sugar. Excessive use of malt liquors, cane sugar, starch foods without a due proportion of fat, undue nervous strain, and sometimes nervous shock, disorganizing nutrition, seem to be the causes. Symptoms can be temporarily relieved by drugs, but the cure is in diet, with normal exercise, right mental conditions and careful living otherwise. Highly cooked cereal starch, like cane sugar, passes into the blood too readily, which is not true of uncooked starch as explained in a former hint. I have shown oatmeal, uncooked, very thoroughly masticated, to be an excellent monodiet. Gluten bread, milk and nuts (pecans or peanuts unroasted) exclusively, with the other natural methods of restoring normal nutrition, will effect a cure in the average case. One who is predisposed by heredity to diabetes, should follow the prescribed diet, with little or no variation.

Orange Cream.

Warm one quart full milk to about blood heat, add one-half cup sugar and one junket tablet, crushed and dissolved in a tablespoonful of cold water. Set aside for ten or fifteen minutes, while you are slightly warming one glass of orange marmalade. Add to the junket mixture and freeze. Orange marmalade made at home costs only about six cents per glass, and can be used in numerous ways besides as a "spread" for bread and toast.

Are you pale, weak, easily tired, and do you lack nerve power? Ask your doctor if Ayer's Sarsaparilla would not be good for you. He knows, and will advise you wisely. Not a drop of alcohol in this medicine. It puts red corpuscles into the blood, gives steady, even power to the nerves; and all without stimulation. Make no mistake. USING UP TRIFLES

SOME ECONOMICAL AND TASTY LUNCHEON DISHES.

Only Skill and Remnants of Food Are Required for the Preparation of Dainties That Are Described Below.

Luncheon dishes need never cost much of anything, since only skill and remnants of food are necessary to obtain dishes which you can share with chance visitors without shame. The pieces of salmon left from the dinner of the day before and the cooked peas obtained from the same source may be turned into an appetizing salad by judicious treatment. Squeeze a little lemon juice over the fish and let it stand to chill. Dress the peas with oil, vinegar, pepper and salt, and turn them into a salad bowl with the fish, which has been cut into small pieces, placed in the center; if you have a few lettuce leaves from the heart of the vegetable use them as decoration after the mayonnaise dressing has been poured over the salad, or use bits of cooked beet, chopped parsley or sliced olives.

Should you like to know how "baked sauerkraut" is served at a famous New York hotel? Take this: Soak the sauerkraut in plenty of cold water until just palatably salty. Put over the fire in a saucepan of boiling water or in the same pot in which bacon or pickled pork are boiling, and cook until tender. Drain, put on a hot dish and serve as a vegetable, if cooked without meat. When cooked with meat, lay the meat on it and serve them together. When the boiled sauerkraut is cold it may be chopped and fried in butter or reheated in gravy or a white sauce.

Sauerkraut with apples is another dish of which this hotel makes a specialty.

Shred fine some crisp white-heart-ed cabbage, then peel about half the quantity of tart apples and slice thin. Rub the inside of a saucepan over with butter. Put at the bottom a slice of fat bacon, then a layer of cabbage, also some small bits of butter, flour or five slices of lemon, a little ground mace and pepper, two or three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, then some of the sliced apples. Follow with a little ham or bacon, and more cabbage in alternate layers. When the stew pan is filled place a layer of veal fat on top and bake three hours in a moderate oven. Serve on a hot dish.

Tongue is a simple jelly a pretty and palatable combination. Cook a small tongue until tender, which will take between two and three hours, and much longer if it is large. Let the tongue cool in the water, then reheat a little and skim. Trim off the roots and make it shapely. Put a layer of apple jelly into a mold, and when cool lay in the tongue and pour apple jelly around and over it. To make the mold look more attractive it will take longer, but after the jelly is first poured in and has become partly stiff put some slices of beet and carrot cut in fancy shapes, and if liked lemon stars and points and some green peas making any design that suggests itself on the side of the dish. Put in the tongue and fill with great care not to dislodge the garnishes. When the second addition of jelly is firm put in more to cover all well. To make the jelly take one quart of canned bouillon heated, and add to it two-thirds of a box of gelatine soaked in two-thirds of a cup of cold water for half an hour. To serve the tongue unmold on a large platter and garnish with parsley.

A delightful dish is the cheese ramekin. Use two rounding tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, a rounding tablespoonful of butter, one-quarter cup of the bread crumbs, the same of milk and a saltspoon each of mustard and salt and the yolk of one egg. Cook the crumbs in the milk till soft, add the stiffly beaten white of the egg. Fill china ramekins two-thirds full and bake five minutes. Serve immediately.

Ever try fried bananas? Peel some bananas and cut in halves cross-wise; roll in flour and fry in deep hot fat. Set on end and pour a hot lemon sauce round them.

Or fried tomatoes? Wipe some smooth, solid tomatoes and slice and fry in a spider with butter or pork fat. Season with salt and pepper.

Warm one quart full milk to about blood heat, add one-half cup sugar and one junket tablet, crushed and dissolved in a tablespoonful of cold water. Set aside for ten or fifteen minutes, while you are slightly warming one glass of orange marmalade. Add to the junket mixture and freeze. The Pipe in Germany.

Among the European smokers the moerschaum and the porcelain bowl find favor with the German, and the rivalry between their respective merchants affords a constant topic of controvery among the burghers or youths of the universities. The possession and becoming use of the pipe mark
the transition from youth to manhood, and the raven rank being assumed,
the pipe, which is its recognized emblem and representative, is seldom out of the hand of its owner.

More Cheerfulness.

There ought to be a state prison for those who destroy the hopefulness and lessen the energy of their fellow-men; they are human ravens eternally croaking their "Nevermore!" like that dismal fowl whose neck the poet should have wrung at an early stage of his visit. We want a prophet of cheerfulness; a dispenser of sunshine.

To Keep Sponges Sanitary

Most people find sponges hard to keep clean and free from slime and for this reason have discarded them entirely.
However, it is easy to keep them clean and sweet if in addition to rinsing in clean, warm water after being used, they are boiled once a week in water to which has been added a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder and then rinsed through several clear, warm waters.
Wash cloths should also be boiled in Gold Dust and thoroughly rinsed, sunned and ironed. Those of thin liner crash are more desirable than heavy ones.

Hundreds of Citizens Send In Their Votes! You Will See Shoes Sold Here "Independent of All Trusts."

Most shoes sold today cost more than they are worth, because they pass through so many hands before they reach the wearer.

They pay four profits to middlemen—the hide dealer's profit, the tanner's profit, the leather jobber's profit, the wholesale shoe dealer's profit.

Endicott, Johnson & Company have cut out these four profits.

Buying their hides at first hand they have cut out the Hide Trust's profit.

By tanning the hides in their own tanneries they have cut out the Leather Trust's profit.

And by selling Endicott-Johnson shoes direct to retailers they have cut out the shoe jobber's profit.

Endicott, Johnson & Company is the only shoe firm in the world that tans its own leather and has established this direct line from "Hide to Retailer."

By cutting out these four profits they can save you from 50c to $1.00 on every pair of shoes you buy—and they give you leathers that you simply cannot buy in other shoes at any price.

Just as an instance of what Endicott, Johnson & Company can do—and does do—for hundreds of thousands of buyers and wearers of shoes, look at the ENDWELL line.

Here is a men's shoe for street and business wear that retails for $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00. It looks worth double the money—and wears even better than it looks.

It has style—line and proportion.

It is comfortable and easy to the foot—soft and elastic—"gluey," as the leather expert calls it.

Endicott-Johnson Company employ some of the finest shoe designing talent in the world.

You can get ENDWELL shoes in high cut and low cut models—lace or button—in a dozen lasts, with narrow, medium or broad toes—and in black, gun metal, Russian, brown, wine or tan leather.

You can have your choice of "Forest Oak" soles, tanned by the old-process straight oak tanning; or of "Kromelk" soles, the wonderful new chrome tanned sole leather that outwears other soles at least two for one.

"Kromelk" soles are not an experiment. Their wearing qualities are a matter of fact—not of theory.

They have proved themselves in practical wear on more than a million pairs of Endicott-Johnson shoes.

The "Kromelk" process was invented and perfected by Endicott, Johnson & Co.

It is their exclusive property.

It has never been duplicated—and it is today the only chrome tanning for sole leathers that is successful and practical, in fact, as well as in name.

"ENDWELL" shoes are so named because they carry out the promise of their youth to an honorable old age.

You know how it is with the average shoes you buy—how well they look at the start and how poorly they finish. How soon the soles begin to go, the heels run down, the vamps stretch and pull out of shape and the uppers yawn around the ankles—the leather loses its finish, gets rough; so that the more you polish it the worse it looks—the shoes dry harsh and stiff after a wetting.

"ENDWELL" shoes outwear any shoe you ever wore at equal prices—and keep their shape and hold their finish to the end.

In the Endicott-Johnson tanneries every lot of leather is tanned with an eye to the kind of shoes that are to be made of it, and the special service they are to give.

The people of the United States wore Millions of Dollars' worth of Endicott-Johnson shoes last year.

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of ENDWELL Shoes. He will tell you that buying shoes independent of all trusts means better shoes at a lower price. It means honest leather. It means cutting out useless profits and putting the difference into your own pocket.

GRAVE QUESTION OF DRESS

SOMETHING BUSINESS GIRL MUST DECIDE FOR HERSELF.

Middle Line Between "Primping" and "Frumpiness" is the Right Course, but Question is Decidedly a Delicate One.

"All in vanity and vexation of spirit," the boss quoted whimsically whenever his help lingered unduly long behind the six-panel folding screen that shut out the rest room at the end of the office.

But sometimes he felt a little more and looked a little more than whimsical when every nymph in the office had contracted the habit—or shall we call it the egotistical disease?—of whisking off to the rest room at every spare moment and always emerging with a fresh layer of rice dust or a daintier effect to her coiffure.

If you could hear that manager think sometimes you would probably hear something like this: "Poor little slaves of style and fashion! How they always swarm at the bottom rung. No, sir, off the stage, I never yet saw a primping doll distinguish herself, more's the pity. It is really too bad so many intelligent girls spend time and money on a business education and then dissipate their energy on this ulcer of vanity."

Many a business girl will admit that the boss almost hit the nail on the head, but—

"That 'but' is a monster one which connotes: Who like the girl who doesn't look neat? What chance has a frump of getting a position? All that glitters isn't gold, and some apples are rotten at the core, but who says that looks don't count?"

All his may be true again, but it isn't so true that a girl shouldn't leave her vanity box at home and dress her hair in such a way that it won't give her a moment's bother in the office, or wear clothes that look substantial and neat without being strikingly chic.

"I would like to be a man for just one reason," says a public stenographer who is always at slacks with the dress boy, "and that reason is clothes. A man can buy a whole outfit in ten minutes where it takes a woman ten hours, not counting ten days or maybe ten weeks of planning and brow-beating. I wish I were brave and original enough to adopt a one-piece office uniform minus all style and trimming and doofangles, and then stick to it no matter how others love the frills and folderols."

Such is generally the attitude of the advanced and aggressive business woman, but of course this way of fighting the dress boy is as yet impractical. Only intellectual cranks can afford to be hooded. The business girl can't boast of being a nonconformist. But there is certainly another way of going at it.

Since simplicity is admired so much nowadays, why not let all your working clothes be rigidly plain but of perfect fit. The loss liable to brushing and mending and buttoning or remodeling it is the less work and worry you will have with it. Why worry whether it shall be slop-suit, hobble, overskirt or plain? Why wear elaborate shirt waists to work that not only mean extra care in the day but excessive laundry bills and much mending and fixing?

WORRY AS Foe OF WORKER

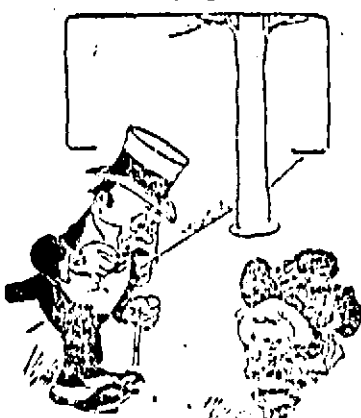

Modern Science Has Proved How Deadly Is Constant Irritation of the Mind.

Modern science has brought to light nothing more curiously interesting than that worry will kill. More remarkable still, it has been able to determine from recent discoveries just how worry does kill. It is believed by many scientists who have followed carefully the growth of the science of brain diseases that scores of the deaths set down to other causes are due to worry and that alone. The theory is a simple one, so simple that anyone can readily understand it. Briefly put, it amounts to this: Worry injures beyond repair certain cells of the brain, and the brain being the nutritive center of the body the other organs become gradually injured, and when some diseases of these organs or a combination of them arises death finally ensues. Thus worry kills. In addition, like many other diseases, it creeps upon the brain in the form of a single, constant, never-lost idea, and as a drooping of water over a period of years will wear a groove in the stone, so does worry gradually, imperceptibly and no less surely destroy the brain cells that lead all the rest, which are, so to speak, the commanding officers of mental power, health and motion. Worry, to make the theory still stronger, is an irritant at certain points which produces little harm if it comes at intervals or irregularly. Occasional worryment the brain can cope with, but the irritation and the reiteration of one idea of a disquieting sort the cells of the brain are not proof against.

It is as if the skull were laid bare and the surface of the brain struck lightly with a hammer every few seconds with mechanical precision, with never a sign of a stop or the failure of a stroke. Just in this way does the annoying idea, the maddening thought that will not be done away with strike or fall upon certain nerve cells, never ceasing, diminishing the vitality of the delicate organisms that are so minute that they can be seen only under the microscope.—Journal of Physiological Therapeutics.

GAYNOR REMOVES POLICE HEAD.

Commissioner Baker and Two Deputies Are Asked to Resign.

New York, Oct. 21.—The long expected shakeup in the administration of the police department occurred when announcement was made from Mayor Gaynor's office that Police Commissioner W. F. Baker and his deputies, Frederick H. Hughes and Charles Kirby, had resigned.

James C. Crosey, a Brooklyn lawyer, was named to succeed Mr. Baker. It had been expected that the mayor, following the disagreement between Commissioner Baker and Acting Mayor Mitchell, while Mr. Gaynor was convalescing from his wound, would make changes in the department, and there was some surprise that he did not act earlier.

SPLENDID STEWART BASE BURNER

For Hard Coal—A Full Double Heater

EXPLANATORY

The price of hard coal has steadily advanced until it is imperative that one who uses this fuel has nothing but the most modern heating apparatus. A stove which does not extract the largest percentage of heat possible is costing the user enough in wasted fuel to pay for a new heater in a surprisingly short time.

In the selection of a Base Burner there are certain facts to be kept in mind. There is no difference in the amount of heat generated in a given quantity of coal fully consumed, no matter what kind of a stove is used.

The Difference in Stoves

The difference in stoves lies in what is done with the heat so generated. How much is radiated into the room and how much escapes up the chimney. The simplest and most wasteful heater is the open fire place. In this the greater part of the heat passes directly into the chimney flue.

Direct Draft Stoves

The direct draft stove (without down draft flues) also wastes heat as compared with a base burner; the heat passing in a direct line from the firepot into the smoke pipe, no heat being radiated from that part of the stove below the level of the grate.

Base Heaters

In Base Heaters the gases are diverted to the base, in which they circulate before escaping to the chimney, and in this longer travel a larger proportion of heat is extracted.

Among Base Heaters there is a great difference. Which kind radiates the most heat? Obviously the one with the largest direct radiating surface. It requires no technical knowledge to grasp the truth of this statement, viz.: The larger the area of heated surface brought in contact with the air of the room, the greater the amount of heat radiated.

Taking Base Heaters of equal firepot capacities (not firepot diameters) the heater which gives the greatest economy in fuel is the one having the largest direct radiating surface, as it extracts the greatest percentage of heat units from the fuel consumed.

The Splendid Stewart Base Burner

The Splendid Stewart establishes a higher grade in Base Burners than has existed heretofore. The construction and finish are not limited by the question of cost, but is such as to make every stove mechanically perfect. The Splendid Stewart is not only the equal of other high-grade Base Burners, but is superior to any and all. Its beauty of design and the handsome appearance of its highly polished silver finish cannot be reproduced by any printed illustration. The stove should be seen to be appreciated.

"Yes, Gooding, Mr. Graham."

"Goodby, my boy."

Duncan watched the old man move slowly out of sight, then, with a groan, sat down on the counter to think it over. "It wouldn't be me if I didn't make a mess of things somehow," he told himself bitterly. "Now you have gone and went and done it, Mr. Fortune Hunter. You stand a good chance of getting away with the goods when you take a wageless job in a spartan country drug store with no trade worth mentioning and nothing to draw it with just because that old duffer's the only human being you've spotted in this burg."

"Wonder what Harry would say if he heard about that wonderful business ability thing. But what in thunder can we do to bring business to this bum joint?"

He raked his surroundings with a discouraged glance.

"Oh," he said thoughtfully, "it's the fault."

Five minutes later Ben Sperry found him in the same position, his head bent in perplexed reverie. Sperry had been travelling for Graham & Jones, a wholesale drug house in Elmira, more years than he could remember. His friendship for Sam Graham, contracted during the days when Graham's was the drug store of Madison, had survived the decay of the business. He was a square, decent man, Sperry, and he wanted many an hour trying to persuade Sam to pay a little more attention to the business.

"Anything I can do for you?" chirped Duncan cheerfully, dropping off the counter as Sperry entered.

"No," answered, "I just wanted to see old Sam. Is he upstairs?"

"No; Mr. Graham's not in at present," Duncan told him civilly.

Sperry wrinkled his brows over this problem. "You working here?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I'll be hanged!"

"Let us hope not," said Duncan pleasantly. He waited a moment, a little irritated. "Sure there's nothing I can do for you?"

"No," said Sperry slowly, struggling to comprehend. "Thank you just the same."

"Not at all," Duncan turned away. "You see," Sperry pursued, "I don't buy from drug stores; I sell to 'em."

Duncan faced about with new interest in the man. "Yes?" he said encouragingly.

"My card," volunteered Sperry, fishing the slip of pasteboard from his whitecoat pocket. He dropped his sample case beside the stove and plumped down in the chair, to the peril of his existence. "I don't make this town very often," he pursued while Duncan studied his card. "Sothern & Leo are the only people I sell to here, but I never miss a chance to chin with old Sam. So, having half an hour before train time, I thought I'd drop in."

"Mr. Graham doesn't order from your house, then?"

"Doesn't order from anybody, does he?"

"I don't know. I've just come here. He'll be sorry to have missed you, though. He's just stepped out to wire your house—gather from the fact that it's in Elmira; he mentioned that town, not the firm name—for some strapping."

"You don't mean it?" Sperry gasped.

"What's struck him all of a sudden? He ain't put in any new stock for ten years, I reckon."

"Well, you see," Duncan explained artfully, "I've persuaded him in a way to try to make something out of the business here. We're going to do what we can, of course, in a small way at first."

"Sperry, what a snubbery head,"

he said, "Sam's a nice old duffer, but he ain't got no business sense and never had. You can see for yourself how he's let everything run to seed here. Sothern & Leo took all his trade years ago."

"Yes, I know. That's why he needs me," said Duncan brazenly. In his soul he remarked, "Oh, Lord!" in a tone of awe. His colossal impudence dazed even himself. "But don't you think he could get back some of the trade if the store was stocked up?"

"No doubt about that at all," Sperry averred; "he'd get the biggest part of it."

"You think so?"

"Sure of it. You see, everybody round here likes Sam, and Sothern & Leo have always been outsiders. They would swing to this shop in a minute just on account of that. But I, I wasted a lot of talk on our firm a couple of years ago trying to make our people give him some credit, but they couldn't see it. He owed them a bill then that was so old it had grown whiter."

"And still owes it, I presume?"

"You bet he still owes it. Always will. It's so small that it ain't worth while suing for."

"Look here, Mr. Sperry, how much is this bill with the whiter?"

"About $50, I think," said the traveling man, fumbling for his wallet. "I'm supposed to ask for payment every time I strike town, you know, so I always have it with me, but I haven't had the heart to say a word to Sam for a good long time. Here it is."

Duncan studied carefully the memorandum. "To Miss, as per bill rendered, $17.35." "I wonder," he murmured.

"What?" said Sperry.

"I was wondering. Suppose you were to tell your people that there's a young fellow here who'd like to give this store a boom. Say he wants a little credit because—because Mr. Graham won't let him put in any cash?"

"Not a bit of use," Sperry negatived. "I would myself, but the house—no."

"But suppose I pay this bill?"

"Pay it? You really mean that?"

"Certainly I mean it," Duncan produced the wad of bills which Kellogg had furnished him the night before his departure from New York. "Thus far he had broken only one of the $200 gold certificates, and of that one he had the greater part left. Living is anything but expensive in Madison."

"I'm beginning to understand that I was cut out for an actor," he told himself as he thumbed the roll with a serious air and an assumed indifference, which permitted Sperry to estimate its size pretty accurately.

"That's quite a stack of chips you're carrying," Sperry observed.

Duncan's hand nimbly waived the remark into the limbo of the negligible. "A trifle—a mere trifle," he said casually. "I don't generally carry much cash about me. Haven't for five years," he added irrepressibly. He extracted a fifty dollar certificate from the sheaf and handed it over. "I'll take a receipt, but you needn't mention this to Mr. Graham just now."

"No, certainly not," Sperry scrawled his signature to the bill.

"And about that line of credit?"

"Well, with this paid I guess you could have what you needed in moderation. Of course—"

"My name is Duncan—Nathaniel Duncan."

Sperry made a memorandum of it on the back of an envelope. "Any former business connections?"

"None that I care to speak about," Duncan confessed glumly.

Sperry's face lengthened. "No references?"

It took thought and after thought, but Duncan hit upon the solution at length. "Do you know L. J. Bartlett & Co., the brokers?"

"Do I know J. Hopson Morgan?"

"Then that's all right. Tell your people to inquire of Harry Kellogg, the junior partner. He knows all about me."

WELCOME NEW LINE

ALL CALIFORNIA ENTHUSIASTIC
OVER WESTERN PACIFIC.Railroad That is a Triumph of Engineering Skill Opens up Wide Stretch of Country to Development.

Two new lines of railroad will cross the wide mountain ranges of the far west this season and reach the ebb and flow of the tides of the Pacific. A third line, 200 miles north of the American border, is crawling toward the Pacific in the Grand Trunk Pacific. The first of the American lines to be opened to traffic was the Western Pacific. The second will be the extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul to the Puget Sound. That event is scheduled for the immediate future.

The Western Pacific, which was opened late in August, is now in full operation from Salt Lake to San Francisco. Five years were taken in building this line, which is 927 miles long. The question of time, however, did not enter into the project so much as the question of grades and curves. Upon them the civil engineers running the new line devoted a vast amount of study, the main purpose of which was to secure a roadbed with not over City the new road runs over a bed of solid rock salt, 97 per cent. pure. For 46 miles the road is a straight line over the salt, which resembles nothing so much as a frozen field of snow and ice.

In getting through the Sierras the new line works westward of the Central Pacific, and strikes a low pass, where it crosses over to Pacific coast side in a tunnel 6,000 feet long. There it strikes the headwaters of the Feather river, famous in the early days of gold mining in California. For nearly 150 miles it follows the circuitous course of that mountain stream, dropping from the altitude of the Sierras to the great valley of central California. Sometimes there is not room in the canyon for the river and the railroad, and solid walls of masonry have been built to support the tracks above the torrential stream beneath. In flood periods the river rises as high as 45 and 50 feet, and in consequence the tracks are located far up on the sides of the canyon. There are numerous bridges of steel, where the road is compelled to cross from one side of the river to the other in order to secure its foothold on the rocky sides of the canyon. There is said to be nothing finer in the way of canyon scenery in America than this run through the Feather river canyon by the new line.

The opening of the new road through central California was attended by many remarkable scenes. At many points which were settled at the Cleansing the Eye.

Tears have their use, apart from the crying aspect. The eye requires to be kept clear and clean, and tears perform this duty. A striking example of this is shown when the eye is hurt. It at once commences to water, and often this natural method of cleansing relieves the pain and removes the cause of the discomfort.

Women Sailors.
Women sailors are employed in Denmark, Norway and Finland, and are often found to be excellent mariners. In Denmark several women are employed as state officials at sea, and particularly in the pilot service. They go out to meet the incoming ships; they climb nimbly out of their boats; they show their diploma, and they steer the newcomer safely into the harbor. It is the same in Finland.

It was a mighty problem not to exceed that grade, when working their lines through the precipitous Sierra Nevada mountains, but it was done and steel rails have taken the place of the surveyors' stakes for the entire distance.

time of the gold excitement people have been waiting over half a century for a railroad, and when it came at last the rejoicing and excitement knew no limits. A wide stretch of country which has been lying dormant ever since the days of the gold fever will now be opened up for development. The country thus made available for human endeavor is said to be as large as an European principality.

Improved Signal Service.

A system of communicating orders to the engineers of a train in the cab while the train is in motion, and one which is both audible and visible, has been adopted by the Northeastern railway of England. In the cab is a dial showing a small semaphore arm by which the condition of the signals are given. Two pointers indicate the route. A bell in the cab directs the attention of the engineer to the indications when made. Connection is made with metallic bars fitted between and parallel with the rails by a metallic brush carried on the engine. The bars are insulated by ordinary telegraph insulators of porcelain. The first bar with which the brush comes in contact causes the bell to ring in the cab. A hundred yards further on a second bar is encountered which sets the semaphore. The signals received are duplicates of the signals in the signalman's tower and are not intended to replace the semaphores now in use, but to supplement them, especially during foggy and stormy weather.

Pravda American Railroads.

Nicholas Von Ostrowsky, president of the Moscow-Lithuan railway of Russia, is back in New York city after a month's tour of the United States, in which he and a party of his engineers have made a careful study of the railway terminals, locomotive and car works and freight handling facilities of this country. Their principal work was done in Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Richmond, Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

"In general we found the railroads of this country excellent," said the Russian railway president, summing up the results of his observations on his arrival here. "In what they do for the comfort for the travelers and the arrangements for the transportation of merchandise, they are wonderful. Compared with the roads of Europe one might say that the roadbeds are not so well kept. But American trains are better and the cars for freight are much larger. But the big freight car is coming in Europe, and we are about to get it in Russia."
